Monty and the Complaints

When a customer brings a broken clock back to Monty & Co, Monty is most indignant. Eddie intervenes, fixes the item and the customer goes away happy. Eddie and Gabriella try to teach Monty how to handle complaints by pretending to be customers but all the complaining makes Monty sad. Gabriella decides it'd be much better if Monty & Co has a Happy Desk instead, where people can come and tell Monty about good things that have happened to them. Monty likes this much more.
